Annual Academic Progress Review for Ph.D. Students

Procedure: In accordance with University and College policy, the major professor or, for those students who have entered candidacy, the doctoral supervisory committee must annually assess, in writing, the academic progress of each Ph.D. student.

These reports will be collected by the department staff and sent to the Dean's Office in the College of Arts and Sciences. A copy of this review will also be filed in the Ph.D. student's departmental advising folder or portfolio.
